The History of the Southeastern Amateur Trophy

The Southeastern Amateur Trophy was made possible by the Jenkins and the Morris Families in memory of Maj. Mulford Jenkins and Lt. John Morris. Both of these men were killed defending their country during World War I.

Maj. Jenkins, R.E. by Trade, was killed on Christmas Day, 1918, while Major Lt. Morris was killed in action in France, in memory of the Service of the Judge.

Lt. Morris, a World-renowned Filmmaker, was killed in the South Pacific, in 1942, while serving with Army ground forces.

Both of these men gave up to Education, were fine, leading men, and often enjoyed a friendly, competitive game of golf on the Trophy Club of Indianapolis' fine golf courses.

These courage and sacrifice over fifty years ago are an example for all of us, and this trophy is a reminder of those and their actions that we can learn.
